

Notice

To whom it may concern:

Those seekers of dappled light,
those who would stroll
through hazy blue and birdsong,
wrap their arms round mossy trunks,
or stoop for sticks that might kindle a fire,
fill baskets with things we know nothing about -
we cannot have that here.

Do not even think to pick.
Look, do not touch.
There will be no loitering,
no carving of names.
Stick to the path.
Walk.
Do not run.

Susie Fry, Mayo, Ireland